Senate Probers Push Inquiry

Leaders From Many Lines Of Business To Be Called Before Committee

STEEL PRESIDENT WILL BE HEARD

By ROBERT A. MCGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Determined to make a comprehensive survey of the business recession, the senate unemployment and relief committee today released a list of additional leaders of business, industry, labor and agriculture who will be asked to give their views.

"I think business has improved since the investigation was begun a week ago but we are going ahead with this phase of the inquiry until a complete picture has been obtained," said Chairman Byrnes (D) of South Carolina.

Temporarily completing its inquiry into the automobile industry, the committee today heard from officials of the munitions and textile groups. They are Lamont Dupont, chairman of E. I. Dupont de Nemours company; Claudius T. Murchison, president of the Textile Institute; Robert E. Henry, president of the Southern Textile Manufacturers association; and Russell Fisher, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers association.

Other witnesses scheduled to appear throughout the week include steel and coal industries; Walter S. Tower, executive secretary, American Iron & Steel Institute; Benjamin Fairless, president of the U. S. Steel corporation; and J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal company.

Machinery, W. J. Kelly, president of the Machinery & Allied Industries; J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads; and A. F. Whitney, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; labor John L. Lewis, chairman of the CIO, and agriculture, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Other groups include Leonard P. Ayres of Cleveland, economist; Louis Kerstein of William Pileone Sons company, Boston, retail trade; and Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, lawyer, and son of the former president.

Following the week's testimony, the committee plans to go into executive session for a few days to study material gathered with a view to outlining temporary procedure for a report recommending remedial legislation for business recessions, and the problems of unemployment and relief.

CRUSHING PEACE TERMS ARE THRUST TOWARDS CHINA

former official spokesman for the foreign minister, and one-time minister to Sweden. They are:

- 1—Establishment of a new Chinese administration, pledging co-operation with Japan's policies, and acceptance of Japan's advance.
- 2—Drastic reduction of the army to the status of a policing agency.
- 3—Rejection of foreign ideological and political influences, such as Communism; and adherence to the anti-Communist pact with Japan, Italy and Germany.
- 4—Removal of all the political, financial and social leaders of the present regime.

Eliminate Trade Obstacles

- 5—Elimination of all trade and financial obstacles—which may necessarily lead to relinquishment of extra territoriality (the right of foreign powers to maintain their own laws and courts), and removal of the foreign international settlements.
- 6—Recognition of the independence of Manchukuo and inner Mongolia.
- 7—Granting to Japan the right to maintain forces in China until China's sincerity and co-operation are proved trustworthy.
- 8—Indemnification of Japan for property losses, and payment by China of a share in the future costs of continuing Japanese military forces in China for police purposes.

America, Great Britain, and other foreign powers enjoying extra-territoriality and international concessions in China would, of course, vigorously oppose the fifth proposal. As one of the first moves in abolishing the rule of Generalissimo Chiang, it was understood that the cabinet today discussed the advisability of recalling Japanese Ambassador Shigeru Kawagoe.

YOUNGSTERS HOPE TO GET MARRIED

a baby boy in Linton, Ind., and officials are still trying to decide what shall be done in the case.

Had Little Money
Just as Betty June and Tommy were unable to marry because of their age, Edwena and Lowell found the law forbade them fulfilling their heart's desire to set up housekeeping.

So, in a childish oblivion to the future, the youngsters drove away in the family car during their luncheon recess at school on Friday in quest of somebody to marry them.

They had, as far as is known, about $5—barely enough to buy food and gasoline for a couple of days.

Philosophic about their disappearance, the parents of both boy and girl said in effect: "They'll turn up sooner or later—as soon as they get hungry or are recognized. Time enough to worry about what we'll do if they're married, when they get home."

the Navy and Army in the regular budget for the next fiscal year. This immediate outlay would provide for commencement of construction of nine new battleships, two aircraft carriers, a number of super-fast light cruisers and auxiliary ships to supply the fleet.

Eighteen warships are provided for in the regular budget. These include two new 35,000 ton battleships, mounting nine 16 inch guns each and costing approximately $60,000,000, two light cruisers, eight destroyers and six submarines. The supplemental program would bring to a total of five the new battleships under construction. Some 70 other warships in categories from aircraft carriers on down to submarines are now being built in Navy yards and private yards under the Vinson-Trammell act to bring the Navy up to the strength permitted under the new defense Washington and London Naval treaties.

Appropriations for national defense including the regular budget and supplemental requests, expected to reach nearly $1,200,000,000 for the 1939 fiscal year.

SPEEDING CAMPAIGN IS SHOWING RESULTS

motorists convicted of violating the speed law be suspended for 90 days. An early court test to determine the validity of the edict was foreseen.

Motorists Cautious

Highway officials said a slackened rate of driving over the week-end was quite noticeable as motorists evidently kept a watchful eye on the flickering speedometer needles.

"My impression is that the people of the state are taking the governor's policy seriously and obeying the edict carefully," Commissioner Percy W. Foote of the state motor police said. "This impression cannot yet be supported by figures showing a reduction in accidents, but I have hopes that it will."

"The people are cooperating not merely because of the fear of losing their licenses but they are trying to support the governor's policy in good spirit. They believe it will work out for their safety and interest, and serve to reduce considerably the 1937 record toll of 2646 deaths on the highways."

Millions Are Fighting That Tired Feeling

Some people are always tired, no matter how much sleep they get. Often they are just suffering from constipation. For early fatigue, mental dullness, sleeplessness, sour stomach and its resultant bad breath, mental depression, the aggravation of most skin blemishes, can all be caused by it. So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. FAITH METAL VAULTS FOR PROTECTION

When one selects funeral furnishings they should not let the eye-appeal lead them to buy a beautiful casket and then place same in a wooden outside case, as the real protection for a casket and one's friends is an airtight metal vault.

And when buying a metal vault, be sure and get the best. Do not buy a 12-gauge vault when you can buy a 10-gauge vault for the same price. Insist that your funeral director explain to you the difference between a 10-gauge and a 12-gauge metal vault.

Don't put all the money into a casket, without protection. Use part of it for a vault and still have a funeral bill no higher than you would pay for a beautiful casket with no protection.

SHIFTS IN DIPLOMATIC POSTS

THE rearrangement of foreign diplomatic posts just announced by President Roosevelt, though largely discounted by advance information, is of wide public interest. Joseph P. Kennedy, as was known, goes to Great Britain. Though a stranger to the diplomatic service, he has filled highly responsible positions under the present administration and possesses the advantage of years of close association with the president. He will play a part in negotiating the proposed trade agreement with Great Britain and as a successful business man will be expected to insure that the United States doesn't get the worst of the bargain.

Hugh Wilson, assistant secretary of state, will replace William E. Dodd in Berlin—inevitably a change for the better. Joseph E. Davies is to move his retinue from Moscow to Brussels when the springtime comes again—an assurance that the embassy in "Little Paris" will not lack gayety and opulent hospitality. The transfer of Norman Armour, now minister in Ottawa, to Chile as ambassador marks promotion for a career man.

Possession of private means is still indispensable for American diplomats, despite the comparatively recent provision for homes free of rent. So long as this condition and the payment of political debts with appointments abroad still prevails, as it has under all administrations, selection on the sole ground of merit is impossible. But the policy of preferring career men, which Mr. Roosevelt has espoused, should gradually contribute to the betterment of the service.

BALDNESS AND THE WEATHER

The purported discovery that hair, like the leaves of trees, falls as the temperature drops, is disconcerting. It had long been man's vanity to believe that the chill of winter encouraged the growth, rather than the removal of his crowning glory, just as beasts of the field and woodland are said to develop warmer coats against the pitiless cold.

The theory that baldness may result from meteorological causes suggests that the cosmic forces are of a surety not to be sneered at. After all, why shouldn't sun spots cause chickenpox or a passing comet induce a slight fever? How can one expect to escape chilblains in the dark of the moon and why isn't it reasonable to believe that planets, not taxes, are responsible for headaches? Eventually, perhaps, everything can be blamed on the weather.

MOST PREFER TO OWN HOMES

Four out of every five Americans of the middle and lower middle income group, if they were to continue to get the same income they now get, would definitely prefer to own their homes rather than to rent them.

Herbert U. Nelson, secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, points out that the above statement is not merely traditional opinion but the statistical finding of interviews with 1,003 people in various typical cities conducted recently by Architectural Forum.

It is interesting to note what are the reasons cited for wanting to be home owners.

Twenty-six per cent of the persons interviewed gave as top reason that they liked the feeling of ownership. The next largest group, more than 23 per cent, said that they wanted to fix up the place to suit themselves. Feeling that a home is a good investment was placed as the top reason by 21.2 per cent while 17.7 per cent said they believed home ownership is more economical in the long run. Those who gave the insurance of a home for their old age as their chief reason numbered 9.6 per cent.

Thus, the purely economic reasons took a back seat for the purely esthetic or spiritual, which should provide the most potent kind of a stimulus for the home building industry.

RUSSIA'S DICTATORSHIP

Interesting indeed is the view expressed by Professor John Dewey to the effect that the Russian Communist experiment can survive only as a dictatorship.

"The Russian experiment," he says, "proves conclusively that when violence is used to bring about economic and political reform, the method of force must be employed to keep the new government in power."

Now, the significant thing about this comment is that Professor Dewey is one of America's outstanding liberals—a man who has frequently exhibited sympathy toward socialistic experimentation of one type or another.

There can be no doubt that his disillusionment is well founded. The Stalin regime, not to mention its ruthless predecessor, has been characterized by virtually all the dictatorial tactics on record.

When Russian leaders have fallen into disagreement with the Soviet policies, they have simply been shot at sunrise with no ifs, ands or buts. Murderous compulsion is the rule of the day.

To be sure, Russia has recently put into operation a new constitution that supposedly gives the people the franchise and permits them to exercise a voice in the conduct of public affairs.

But, as in Nazi Germany, it's rather dangerous to indicate dissent in connection with established governmental practices.

The sum and substance of it is that the difference between a dictatorship of one man and a dictatorship of a proletariat is so small as to pass unnoticed by a most sympathetic observer of Communist rule. Force breeds force. It always has. It always will.

It's hard to believe sometimes when observing the way Japanese troops carry on in China that their boss is the Son of Heaven.

H. G. Wells says there will be no big war until 1940. You could scarcely blame a Chinaman for asking, "How big is big?"

Putting a two-reel comedian into a picture of feature length always reminds us that only Cobb could stretch a single to three bases.

Chippendale himself never made a piece of furniture that looked the money when piled on the sidewalk beside a moving van.

Refuting a common supposition, a savant at Carnegie Institute thinks the interior of the earth is not so hot. Maybe the whole planet is overrated.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

QUESTIONS ON CHILD

QUESTION: The first time I spanked my baby he seemed terribly hurt, and I know I was. I immediately caressed him and he soon was happy. Now he always expects the same treatment after punishment.

ANSWER: You did what most parents are tempted to do, but you did wrong. You inflicted pain on the baby and then showed him you were sorry that you did. The only reason you could have for giving him pain was to make what he must not do so painful that it will not be repeated. You wanted him to have pain. You deliberately gave it to him with a definite purpose. But when you immediately cuddled him you gave him pleasure right after the pain. How was he to get the right connection? How was the punishment to do him any good? Besides, the confusion caused the little tyke to connect the pain with you rather than with the forbidden act.

Of course his first response hurt you, you suffered. But you must steel yourself against this feeling, and so direct all punishment that only he will get the pain when he should have it. And you will so discipline yourself that you will never punish the child unless you are sure it is for his good. Otherwise you are hardly fit to punish him at all.

Q. Why do you always say, "Have the child sit for exactly so many minutes"? Why not say, "Until I tell you to get down?"

No Doubt About Punishment

A. Because the punishment must carry no doubt; it must be definite and decisive if the child is going to take it as inevitable. If you make the time indefinite you invite the child to argue, plead, cry. She discovers that if she can keep at you long enough and worry you enough she can win you to her way. At least she has hopes, and it is hard for her to give up. But very soon the child discovers that no matter how much she begs or talks or yells, she cannot change the clock. It never has a headache, it never gets nervous, nor can its feelings be affected in any way.

You know the plan is working very well when your child on being assigned to sit in the chair for punishment stoically asks, "How long?"

Q. Why is sitting in a chair for punishment better than standing in the corner?

A. It is far easier to enforce and is very effective, even though less painful physically. Anyway, the punished child is in need of relaxing. Sitting affords relaxation, standing doesn't. I might add that sitting on the floor or on a cot might be as good as sitting in a chair. When a chair is used, indeed, there ought to be a footrest. It had better always be a particular chair. You don't want the child to associate discomfort with all chairs.

I'D RATHER BE SORRY THAN SAFE

When I come to the last swift years of my life and sit down in some corner to balance my accounts and decide for myself what has been profit and what has been loss—

As I sit there and muse over the past, over the good and the bad, the useful and the futile, the barren and the fruitful—

If some young sprig should come my way and ask me what cankerous regret I must have, I would say:

I know what my answer must be. I'll tell him: "Young fellow, my deepest regret is for those times in my life when I played safe, when I remembered that old saw about it's being better to be safe than sorry, and did not do what I knew in my heart I should have done!"

Too often I have played safe and lived to regret my caution. Always I have suffered more for the challenges I have ignored than for the dares I have accepted. I have been enriched by those hours when I risked peace and comfort. I have

Cascade Park Winter Appeal

I was at Cascade Park on a nice bright morning last week.

A few birds were singing in the leafless trees, no doubt showing their appreciation of the beautiful morning.

Took a walk around, noting how pretty the scenery was, with things clothed in their winter garb. Went and stood on the wooden bridge, and looked up toward the falls, then down upon the large rocks, covered by a thin layer of snow, listened to the roar of the falls, and the murmur of the stream below, and thought the whole scene was enchanting.

Had an idea, what a nice thing it would be for folks, who are "cooped up" day after day, so much of their lives, in homes, offices and places of business, away from God's sunshine, fresh air and nature's beauty, if it were possible for them to avail themselves on such fine mornings, of all these blessings so near at hand, at Cascade Park.

After the open fireplace is completed in the grove, morning parties could be arranged to enjoy the bracing air, before taking up the duties of the day.

Of course many enjoy skating on the lake, which is another feature during this season.

MODERNIZING HISTORY
The scene was a Hollywood studio. Thousands of "extras" attired as French revolutionaries storming the Bastille, filled the lot. Answers
1—On the table.

2—Yes, but the sender's title and surname are usually crossed out with a pen, leaving only the Christian name when the recipient is an intimate friend.

3—The usher should ask each guest whether she belongs on the bride's or the groom's side and if she is "in the ribbons." He then accordingly leads her to a pew.

Rev. U. S. Patent Office

By FRANCINE MARKEL

DEAR MISS MARKEL—I am to be married shortly at a church wedding. I feel that I should entertain my attendants at luncheon. When should this be done, how and just who should be included in the party?

ANSWER—It is customary in some communities for the bride or her mother to give a luncheon a few days before the wedding. The guests should include the bridesmaids, the maid-of-honor, a few other intimate friends, the mother and sisters of the groom and any house guests who may be visiting the bride's home.

Usually there is a frosted "bride's" cake containing fortunes for the bridesmaids.

The bride's gifts to her attendants are usually presented at this luncheon.

President's Talk Is Bullish
Also Hailed As Inflationary
Millions Await Chance To EarnBy LESLIE RICHEL,
Central Press Columnist

SOME PEOPLE have been puzzled why President Roosevelt's recent utterances, especially his message at the opening of congress and the statements following, including the budget report—have had a "bullish" effect.

The answer may be found in the speculative mind. The administration plans to turn some spending forces loose again—and that is inflationary. The armament program is especially "bullish" for armor plate firms and munitions manufacturers in general. That, alone, however, would not be sufficient, as armament spending seeps through merely to a few. The government must, and will, provide work again for the hungry.

It is paradoxical and ironical that Wall Street would not be "bullish" if a real solution to depressions and recessions had been found.

MILLIONS WAITING
Millions of dollars—tens of millions—nevertheless are awaiting investment. And, as the government probably will remain out of the borrowing field to any large extent for a year and a half, private issues can be floated very favorably, at low interest rates. But the wise corporation will not float more issues than business demands, if "new" money for expansion is desired. If the issues are to retire higher-costing indebtedness that is another matter.

Incidentally, since Erie did not pay the interest on $85,000,000 worth of bonds the other day, other railroads have become suspect and their bonds are being dumped by some.

The railroads, besides Erie, that have nervous bonds are Baltimore & Ohio, Jersey Central, Lehigh Valley, Boston & Maine, Illinois

Central and Southern. Future maturities or heavy interest payments are the reason.

B. & O. has been tied over for the time being by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to take care of maintenance and equipment trust obligations.

REGARDING CLOSED BANKS
Mr. D. J. Moran, a lawyer of Hammond, Ind., writes this interesting information concerning closed banks:

"I heartily approve of your column on the liquidation of state banks."

"It contains some errors. (1) State banks, members of the Federal Reserve system, were subject to national government inspection, but the Reserve system could accept the state inspection reports, which it did. (2) Any state bank employee, if the bank belonged to the Federal Reserve system, who defrauded his state bank, was subject to federal prosecution and punishment. (3) Congress can investigate all such state banks."

"Three employees of a state bank here pleaded guilty in our federal court, but got suspended sentence. Properly so, because they were mere 'yes' men for the real rascals."

"The whole banking system failed in the early thirties simply because the banks ran the inspection systems of both the states and the federal government, by appointing the inspectors."

"The bankers, as they do today, set themselves up as supermen in banking and credit, and state bank commissioners and the controls of currency believed them and hearkened to their voice."

"These supermen confessed their sins when they sought to defeat the

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

Here is a traffic safety lesson from a man who died in a traffic accident.

Twenty-four hours before he rode to his death in a motorcycle-automobile collision near the Carquinez bridge on the Sacramento-San Francisco highway in California, Officer Richard H. Trembath of the California Highway Patrol, completed a paper on what he believed to be the causes of highway accidents and potential remedies.

Trembath, who wrote the paper as a part of the advanced training course for officers of the California Highway Patrol School in Sacramento, stressed education, co-operation of the courts and highway engineering to eliminate three lane highways.

Of necessary education he wrote: "It is my opinion that the correct attack for the future reduction of traffic accidents should necessarily be a program of education."

"Any educational program should be of a graphic nature."

"A constant barrage of publicity through the press should keep the public eye on the fact of the appalling growth in traffic casualty lists."

Touching on enforcement, Trembath wrote:

"The present practice of trying traffic cases before a Justice of the Peace sometimes permits politics to jeopardize the progress that has been made in law enforcement."

"It is my belief that a traffic court system, involving the choice of magistrates through civil service to establish the ability of a person holding such a position and to insure his holding of such a position during his fitness to do so in spite of political elections, would solve this."

Trembath called upon the motor-

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Diary: Breakfasted on succulent slices of a Tennessee ham Dean Cornwell expressed from Nashville, where he has been painting murals. And a note from Gilda Gray chanting praise for the ranch life she has permanently adopted in the Colorado high country.

Came, too, the saltiest limerick in many moons from Burt MacBride, one of Harry Burton's pamphlets. And so out with my wife and dropped in to the dinner party at that W. W. Hawkins and his wife fine boys gave, all the town there. Later to join some folk at the Colony and my wife sat a moment at another table with Mrs. Ellen Berlin, looking the loveliest we ever saw her in a powder blue gown.

Nothing fascinates thumb-twiddling antiquarians like watching folk in a restaurant. Down at venerable Whyte's on Fulton street the other mid-afternoon a table of straggling lunchers remained to talk things over. At the bar was a youth who did not fit in with the Whyte sedateness. He weaved over a half-filled glass. Then he picked it up and staggered to the phone booth, and as people often do on the loose, called up someone far away. He had to get a handful of quarters. The glass now was empty and he ordered a refill. "Sorry, but you have had enough," said the bartender, pleasantly but firmly. He insisted on "just one more" to no avail, then walked out in a sort of haze. An hour later I saw him three blocks away going through his pockets fumbly-like. Finally he swayed over to a doorway and collapsed like a slowly deflating balloon.

In robust drinking days I used to drop around now and then to visit a well-crowded bar on 4th avenue in the 20's, where the tourist never appears and where patrons were almost invariably men of culture and erudition, but often a bit run down at heel. There was a Lawrence D'Orsay-looking Englishman, once a shunter at the old Paddington station who became a sub-editor of the London Times. Later he has been attached to an American encyclopedia. He spoke French fluently. Indeed, he professed to talk in 20 languages and to prove it would carry on creditable conversations with the Greek shine boy, a German waiter and a French bartender.

It does not strike me there is a place for Mae West's dubious inflections on the radio. Nor on the screen, for that. In my book, she is definitely for the Minsky trade. That much discussed appearance on a Sunday night radio hour had a tinge of sacrilege. Miss West's brand of innuendoes does not strike me as even clever double entendre, but if it were only the usual jovial commonness it has not right on programs heard by children. Such guttery material is exactly what jockeyed the legitimate theatre behind the eight ball. Entertainment purveyors seem unable to learn the lesson of charm and profits in "Lightnin'" which ran three years without a single suggestive line or situation. And watch "Snow White" with the same purity top the movie records!

Strictly speaking, New York no longer has a "sob sister." That is, in the manner of Zoe Beckley, Nikola Greeley-Smith, Jane Dixon and similar byline favorites of another decade. The sob sister was most conspicuous in the Evelyn Thaw era. Special women writers today, such as Adela Rogers St. Johns and Helen Worden make no effort to wring tears. They merely write from the feminine angle.

Bagatelles: Louis Bromfield writes but two hours a day on his novels from 9:30 to 11:30. . . . President Hoover, despite many ocean crossings is always a bit seasick. . . . Winnie Sheehan, who never went to opera until he married Jeritza, now goes every chance he gets. . . . Sophie Tucker and Victor Moore are regarded as the most financially secure of the vaudeville folk. . . . Grace Moore has been receiving the Bronx cheer from Broadway columnists, who say she boomed some impromptu ditties of stage folk at El Morocco. . . . She denies it.

Note from Bugs Baer: "Dear Odd Simeon of Stylus lived on his column for 37 years, man and boy. You and I still have a few contracts to work out."

There are 10,000 amateur telescope makers and approximately 100,000 amateur astronomers in the United States, according to a hobby study.

DO COW-PUNCHERS APPRECIATE CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS?

TED YOCHUM was born and raised in the cattle country. Speaking from personal observation, Ted says: "Cow-punchers are great Camel smokers. Seems like if a man smokes Camels once—he sticks to 'em. Come round-up time—I'm in the saddle for hours, and not sparin' myself. A Camel sure hits the spot then. I get a mighty pleasant 'lift.'"

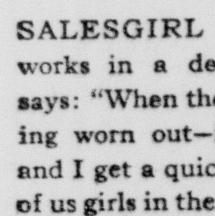

Yes, and to America at large, Camel's costlier tobaccos have such a special appeal that they are the largest-selling cigarette in this country!

AUTO MECHANIC Al Patterson says: "In the garage business you have to catch your meals on the run. I find that Camels seem to smooth the way for good digestion. The Mrs. smokes Camels too."

CHIEF SIGNALMAN John Geraghty: "You don't have to be a railroad man to know that speed and safety—our watchwords—call for healthy nerves. I smoke plenty. Camels don't jangle my nerves."

SALES GIRL Elsie Schumacher works in a department store. She says: "When the rush gets me to feeling worn out—it's me for a Camel, and I get a quick 'lift.' Practically all of us girls in the store prefer Camels."

PERSONAL SHOPPER Irene Sherwood says: "I guess every woman knows how hectic shopping is. I'm up against that six days a week. When I'm fatigued, I light up a Camel. It helps me to snap back."

PHARMACIST J. E. Bayus says: "I get in a lot of Camel smoking. And when I say I never tire of Camel's taste—it's experience talking."

CHAMPION TYPIST Remo Poulson: "I enjoy Camels from one end of the day to the other. And Camels are so mild, they don't irritate my throat."

Talks Over Phone To Big Steamer In Mid-Atlantic

New Castle Man Talks To Wife Over Phone To Ship 1200 Miles Off Shore

It is not often that a person in New Castle talks via the telephone to a person on an ocean liner 1,200 miles off the Atlantic coast, but this is what occurred yesterday afternoon.

The conversation was between Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barkby and their small son, Frederick, who said "Hello" to his mother after Mr. and Mrs. Barkby had conversed about 3:30 p. m.

Mrs. Barkby sailed for England on Thanksgiving Day. She had visited relatives after hearing of the loss of a brother, and was returning home.

Yesterday Mr. Barkby put in a long distance call here for his wife on the Aquatania. The call was given to the overseas division. About 45 minutes were required to complete the call.

The telephonic conversation was as clear as though Mr. and Mrs. Barkby and their son had been talking to each other over a local line here, Mr. Barkby reports.

Mrs. Barkby informed her husband she expects the liner to dock at New York City Tuesday morning.

Learners must have the registration card for the auto to be used in the test, be accompanied by a licensed operator who has his operating card with him and also possess his learner's permit.

TWO SMALL FIRES OCCUR ON SATURDAY

Firemen were called out twice Saturday evening for chimney fires, one of which set fire to the floor at the home of Floyd Mancino, of 1328 Croton avenue. Damage of around $35 resulted.
The other fire at the home of Mrs. I. M. Jackson, of 509 County Line street required no action by firemen.

MR. KLONTZ GETS A TIP—
NO ORDINARY SOAP PROTECTS AGAINST "B.O." AS LIFEBOUY DOES!

I TRIED ORDINARY SOAP ONCE... AND FOR A TIME THOUGHT I WAS SAFE FROM "B.O." I'M SURE MY SURPRISE WHEN I OVERHEARD...

A WORD TO THE WISE IS SUFFICIENT. I KNEW THAT I HAD TO GO BACK TO LIFEBOUY RIGHT AWAY...

I WENT BACK TO LIFEBOUY... AND I'VE PUT ALL FEAR OF EMBARRASSING ODOR BEHIND ME FOREVER!

MR. KLONTZ is just one of Lifebuoy's millions of faithful fans. Men and women, old and young, who trust Lifebuoy to keep them immaculately fresh, free from any likelihood of offending.

How wise they are to depend on Lifebuoy! They know no ordinary soap stops "B.O." as Lifebuoy does. For Lifebuoy contains an exclusive purifying ingredient not in any other popular bath or toilet soap.

And that exclusive ingredient not only makes the soap a more thorough cleanser, it makes it milder, too—by test over 20% milder than many leading "beauty" and "baby" soaps. That's why so many lovely women depend on Lifebuoy for complexion care.

Just try Lifebuoy for your daily bath and complexion for one week—you'll become a Lifebuoy fan, too!

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Investigations Aid To President

Are Seen By Some As Fostering Third-Term Idea With Roosevelt

SIX YEARS ARE NEEDED ON JOB

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Investigations which Rooseveltians are conducting generally are regarded in Washington as hinting strongly at third term activity in behalf of President Roosevelt.

These investigations confidently are expected to lead up to conclusions favorable to the Rooseveltian politico-economic philosophy, but some of them are pretty certain to be strung out to the tune of two or three years' duration. For example, Senator James P. Byrnes' committee is trying to hit on the basic cause of unemployment. It surely will be some time before it can have analyzed its problem thoroughly enough to be able to submit a convincing answer to it.

A dozen other investigations similarly are in progress.

The fruit will be progressively ripening between now and 1940, but it scarcely can be counted on to be sufficiently mature to fall off the tree much before the latter year.

SIX YEARS NEEDED

After that it will have to be "canned" in the form of legislation.

The job of legislative "canning" will be completed rapidly if another four years witnesses its completion.

If the investigational fruit is of Rooseveltian growth, can't it be more capably legislatively "canned" under Rooseveltian than under any other auspices? Assuming an affirmative response, the obvious rejoinder is that "F. D.'s" continuation in the executive mansion at least until the end of 1944 is essential.

It will be quick work at that.

Such a transformation, from an orchardful of budding politico-economic fruit into a cellular of legislative canned goods usually takes two or three generations. Effecting it in the space of three-four-year presidential terms would be accomplishing it in record time.

SEE F. D. R. NEEDED

Of course the theory is that "F. D." having started the fruit growing, and having ripened it pretty well up to the point for the canners to take it in hand, can afford to turn it over to the latter to preserve it for the future.

Yes, but the contrary argument is that not more than about once in a century is one man equipped to put through the whole program competently.

Mussolini and Hitler have tried it, but not with results all hands approved of. "F. D.'s" admirers consider that his system promises to turn out perfectly—if he is left alone to see it through to the finish.

F. D. R. PREFERRED?

There are, to be sure, others who think they could, respectively, carry on, succeeding Roosevelt in 1940, as ably as "F. D." has done—Agriculture Secretary Henry A. Wallace, Interior Secretary Harold I. Ickes, Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed, Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, et cetera. And doubtless they have their friends, who agree with them.

The rank-and-file of New Dealers, however, would prefer another term of Roosevelt.

There also are stand-patters (of both parties) who want a reversal to conservatism—neither Roosevelt, Reed, Jackson nor any of the remainder of them—but they seem to be in a hopeless minority.

IF BUSINESS IMPROVES—

If the recession continues, if times get worse or stay bad, it will be different.

But if there is an improvement? These investigations will begin to "take".

And if they do, the popular reaction inevitably will be pro-Rooseveltian as to 1940.

Anti-third term sentiment will go into the discard.

Ten Of State's C.C.C. Camps May Be Abandoned

Number Of Camps To Be Reduced April 1, Under Order Of President

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 10.—Pennsylvania may lose 10 of its 50 CCC camps next April first under an economy order issued by the White House.

At the present there are 1,500 camps in the country. Hearings before a House appropriations subcommittee disclosed this week that President Roosevelt had directed Robert Fechner, administrator of the CCC, to reduce this number to 1,200 for the enrollment period commencing April first. This represents a cut of 20 per cent.

If the slash is applied equitably to all states, Pennsylvania camps will be reduced by 20 per cent, or from a total of 50 to a total of 40. CCC officials as yet are not prepared to say what camps will be eliminated. A series of conferences between CCC leaders and interested officers of the various states will be held in March. At these conferences spokesmen of Pennsylvania and the other states will outline what camps may best be spared, and Mr. Fechner will use this advice in determining what camps to eliminate.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation bill when they said bankers were so dishonest and so incompetent that they were uninsurable risks. However, they proved bad prophets, as it has worked extremely well. We have had a few insured state banks fail in Indiana, but their officers were promptly sent to the federal prison. The federal prison has wonderfully improved both the honesty and competence of the officers and employees of state banks that are insured.

All our Hammond, Ind. banks failed, eight in all, and affairs of the state banks, seven in number, were administered, not by state authority, but by court authority, and it was as thoroughly wasteful and incompetent as any that could be imagined.

been impoverished by every decision to let well enough alone, stay in my place, and wait for the storm to blow over.

When I have been bored, it has always been a punishment for my indifference to life. That boredom has come from within, has not been imposed upon me by the dullness of others. When I have grieved most sorely, I have always known that at the heart of my sorrow was regret for words I have not spoken, for gestures I have restrained.

Thus I have come to know there is no meaning in that phrase, "Better be safe than sorry." So often the safety itself is the seat of sorrow. I am now suggesting that a man or woman should run wild, and heedlessly, recklessly risk his life and character and the happiness of those who love him. But I do know that wise daring is the source of lasting happiness and no man whose life has been richly adventuresome comes to stale and whining old age.

ing public to remember "that the negligent operation for motor vehicle may involve great injury to death and the essentials that make up such negligence are not offenses that can be overlooked."

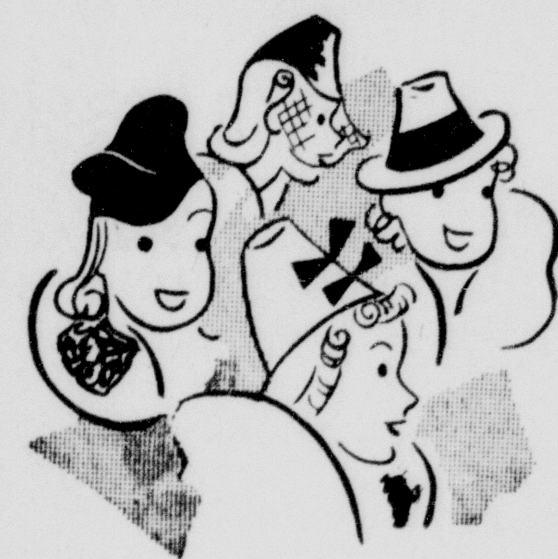

On highway engineering, the Officer wrote: "The total elimination of three lane highways is most desirable." And Trembath twenty-four hours after he wrote this statement, was killed on a three lane highway. Other officers attending the training school with Trembath termed the third lane "a no man's land where everyone thinks he has the right-of-way."

Two way highways are really safer than three way. Four way roads are the coming arrangements. More than this, the ideal road of the future will consist of two lanes going one way and two lanes separated by trees or walls, eliminating head-on collisions entirely.

Secure Attorney To Defend Youth

Father Of Wendell F. Bowers Engages Lawyer To Help Son Escape Chair

SLAYER DOES NOT WANT AID

(International News Service)
NORRISTOWN, Pa., Jan. 10.—Despite the prisoner's refusal to accept their aid, the family of Wendell Forrest Bowers, confessed slayer of Mrs. Wilma V. Carpenter, Camp Hill widow, today insisted it would assume charge of the battle to save him from the electric chair. The youth's father, Roland Bowers, announced Elmer L. Menges of Ambler, who as an assistant district attorney sent Bowers to a reformatory in 1935 for burglary, has been retained as defense counsel and that he expected to be able to persuade his son to leave the case in his hands.

Montgomery county's three judges are to decide today whether they have the right to supersede the parents and comply with Bowers' request that they appoint an attorney to defend him.

Light List Of Court Cases

Civil Court Session Opens At Lawrence County Court House Today

NINE OF JURORS FAIL TO APPEAR

Civil court opened today in the Lawrence county court house with an unusually light list of cases to be tried. Of the 65 jurors empaneled, nine did not appear for various reasons. Seven more were excused upon application to the court.

The nine failing to appear were John C. Allen, engineer, second ward, G. A. Hamilton, janitor, Plaingrove township, Clyde B. McCready, barber, 3rd ward, Ora A. Muse, housekeeper, 4th ward, Frank ces Osborne, housekeeper, 2nd ward, John Pearson, laborer, Shenango township, David Phillips, retired, 5th ward, George Porter, engineer, Mahoning township, John A. Zehner, farmer, Shenango township.

Those excused were, Harry O. Barr, laborer, 4th ward, Cecelia Daugherty, clerk, 8th ward, E. O. Duff, retired, North Beaver township, William Gordon, farmer, Little Beaver township, Charles Gruenwald, electrician, Pulaski township, Karl T. Rohrer, carpenter, Union township, Winifred Westlake, housekeeper, 3rd ward.

The first case called before Judge W. Walter Braham was that of Angeline Ambrosia a minor by her father Rocco Ambrosio, and Rocco and Bessie Ambrosio, Parents against Mahoning township. The case is one for damages arising out of an accident on September 30, 1933 when a car driven by Mrs. Ambrosio overturned and injured the three year old daughter. The Ambrosios alleged the road was in bad shape and that the township supervisors were negligent.

In court room number two Judge Thomas W. Dickey handed down an order confiscating $93.77 taken in a numbers raid sometime ago. The money had been the property of Anthony Ross.

President Seeks To Crush Ludlow War Referendum

Sends Letter To House Speaker

Unprecedented Move Is Made By Roosevelt To Sway Congress Action

CONDEMNNS PLAN IN STRONG TERMS

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Determined congress must take no step jeopardizing this nation's international prestige in troubled times, President Roosevelt personally assumed command of the drive to crush the Ludlow war referendum resolution in the house today.

In a virtually unprecedented move Mr. Roosevelt dispatched a letter to Speaker Bankhead to be read to the members when they convened, condemning the proposal in the strongest terms and calling for its overwhelming defeat.

With defeat of the resolution already regarded as certain by house leaders, the president's letter was viewed more as directed to the world rather than to congress.

Gives Emphasis.

It served to give "headline" emphasis to the administration's attitude, enunciated by Secretary of State Hull on Saturday, that this government would tolerate nothing that would handicap it in its conduct of international affairs.

Undeterred by notice of the president's move, a steering committee for the resolution gathered before the house convened to put finishing touches to an amendment calculated to gain votes for the proposal.

Working all day Sunday, the group drafted an amendment to safeguard the Monroe Doctrine by vesting in congress the right to declare war without a referendum of the people should any western hemisphere country be invaded.

As drafted by Rep. Louis Ludlow (D) of Indiana, a hulking, soft-spoken former Washington newspaperman and ardent pacifist, the resolution proposes to amend the constitution to limit the power of congress to declare war without referendum to cases of foreign invasion of this country or its possessions.

Ludlow has approved the suggestion that his resolution be amended to protect the Monroe Doctrine and worked with the committee perfecting the change.

Petition Gets Action

He introduced the resolution in the first session of the present congress, saw the house judiciary committee balk at its consideration, and launched the long, tedious task of petitioning it out of committee. The required 218th name to the petition was added the day following the Panay incident.

Although 218 members, a majority of the house, signed the petition to give the membership an opportunity to vote on whether it wanted to consider the resolution, administration leaders claimed that at least 28 of the number will reverse themselves today and oppose consideration.

Supporters countered with the claim that at least that number who did not sign the petition have indicated they will vote to consider the proposal, thus leaving the administration in the doubtful position of having to garner votes from the handful of Republicans in the house.

County Christian Endeavor Union Plans For Events

Various plans for the next few months are being made by the Lawrence county Christian Endeavor Union. The spring Christian Endeavor rally will be held Thursday evening, March 3.

The first week of February is to be observed as Founders' Week and will be closed with a special program by each church, on Sunday evening, Feb. 6. The committee to arrange for special programs for this week includes Olive Webb, Louise McDowell and Edwin Gardner.

Lawrence county will be host to the Christian Endeavor unions of the western district (Butler, Beaver, Clarion, Jefferson, Indiana, Armstrong and Lawrence on April 20 at a big rally. Many state leaders, including State Secretary Warren G. Hoopes and State President Harry Kuch, will be present.

Dr. J. Wilson Byers, western district president, was a special guest at the county executive meeting.

As drafted by Rep. Louis Ludlow (D) of Indiana, a hulking, soft-spoken former Washington newspaperman and ardent pacifist, the resolution proposes to amend the

Meetings Continue At Croton Church

Big Week Is Anticipated By Dr. Joseph A. Cousins, Pastor Of Congregation

Evangelistic services, which got under way at the Croton Avenue M. E. church a week ago, and which have been drawing more people nightly to the services, will continue throughout the week, Dr. Joseph A. Cousins, the pastor, announced.

Affair To Aid Croton Band

Benefit On Wednesday Evening To Take Place At Franklin Auditorium

NEW UNIFORMS FOR BAND ARE SOUGHT

New Castle will get a chance on Wednesday night to turn out for a benefit affair for one of the city's finest musical groups—the famed Croton band.

In the Ben Franklin junior high school auditorium that evening the band will sponsor a program of music, dancing and novelty numbers in the hopes of raising, through the proceeds, enough money to buy new uniforms to replace those the band was provided 20 years ago.

It was the Croton band that marched to the depot with New Castle's World War soldiers and marched again to the depot to welcome them back. It was the Croton band that marched in scores of local parades—and marches today just as it always did!

Miss Dorothy Patch is the band's director. She said a complete program of the Wednesday show will be announced Tuesday.

who urged the Nipponese to carry out a peaceful occupation. Soon afterwards the flag of surrender fluttered from a tall flagpole in Tsingtao.

Japanese Advance Rapidly
The former Chinese defenders who retreated westward from Tsingtao faced annihilation from a Japanese column which advanced rapidly eastward along the railroad. The Japanese reached a point two and a half miles from Weifang, where the Chinese hastily threw up rude defensive works.

Prior to the surrender, seven Nipponese airplanes simultaneously bombarded the city of 400,000 with leaflets urging peaceful surrender and instructed Americans and other neutrals not to approach dangerous areas.

Japan's solicitation about neutrals followed strong protests against recent cases of maltreatment of foreigners in Shanghai.

But it did not reflect any change in Japan's attitude for the military spokesman insisted on the right to send troops into the international settlement and French concession. While Japan recognized the boundaries of the American and similar foreign defense zones "in principle," he said, Japan could not do so "in all cases," as the boundaries were not regarded as "strictly international from frontiers."

Japan's attack on Tsingtao began without resistance. There were no casualties when the troops landed.

The move was in reprisal for the recent burning of Japanese-owned property estimated to be worth $100,000,000 by Chinese.

Most Americans had already been evacuated from the city on other U. S. warships. However the Japanese pamphlets specified localities where "safety to all can be assured."

DISTRICT B'NAI B'RITH COUNCILS MEET HERE

Penn State college. He explained that he was grateful to B'Nai B'Rith for undertaking the sponsorship of the foundation 10 years ago. "We need your help for this tremendous job, but, above all, we must not fail," were Rabbi Gordon's concluding words. His address was most instructive and thoroughly enjoyed by the group.

Levine Toastmaster
Following a delicious baked chicken dinner, Nathan J. Love, president of B'Nai B'Rith lodge of New Castle No. 609, extended a welcome to the group and then introduced the evening.

Mr. Levine welcomed the guests and then read a telegram sent by David Victor, who is vacationing in California. He also expressed regrets that Mr. and Mrs. M. Feuchtwanger were unable to be present.

David H. Weiner, president of Western Pennsylvania Council, the first speaker, expressed the gratitude of the council to the New Castle lodge for the splendid occasion.

Weiner explained that the quarterly meetings bring about re-newed inspiration. The following grand lodge officers were introduced: Dr. Louis Gershenfeld, president of Philadelphia; second vice president, Nathan Katz, Pittsburgh; Abraham Berkowitz, Philadelphia; F. R. S. Kaplan, Pittsburgh; Isadore Sobel, Erie; Rudolf Hannan, Washington, Pa., all past presidents. Council officers include David Weiner, president; William Barnett, Rochester, first vice president; Dr. B. Greenberger, Alliquippa, second vice president; Bernhardt Blumberg, Bradock, treasurer; Leon Smith, Bradock, field secretary; F. R. S. Kaplan, of Pittsburgh and Isadore Sobel of Erie, made a few remarks in which they commended the local lodge for their hospitality during the day and evening.

Toastmaster Levine then called Dr. Louis Gershenfeld, of Philadelphia, president of district grand lodge No. 3, and one of the principal speakers. After thanking the New Castle hosts, the speaker cited the fact that Jews represent a minority group who have had their trials and tribulations. "Then he asked, 'What can we do? What is the answer? Carry on for the benefit of humanity. Be a Jew. We must carry on and can do so. Understand yourself. There are many who don't know what Judaism is. The B'Nai B'Rith is an organization willing to cope with problems which will benefit Jewry,' Dr. Gershenfeld said.

He continued by stating that despite all things, there are 16,000,000 Jews in the world and most of them are together because of organizations like the B'Nai B'Rith. "The B'Nai B'Rith program is a flexible one, one that changes accordingly. We must live as positive Jews in order to carry on. B'Nai B'Rith stands prepared to carry on," he remarked that the Ten Commandments comprise Judaism. In concluding, he asserted that an organization can possess unity and yet not uniformity. His closing remark, "Play your part at the right time. I assure you sympathy and harmony."

Berkowitz Speaks
Pointing to the flag of the United States, Abram Berkowitz, of Philadelphia, one of the feature speakers, said: "If there is a reporter here, I beg him to take down this: 'We purpose living under the principles of the democracy for which that flag represents, and to safeguard the Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution and to live under the principles of democracy as laid down by the United States Constitution and against heresies of Fascism and Communism.'"

Shaking his head, Mr. Berkowitz asserted that he believes Christianity is in danger and that that problem must be taken up. He mentioned the fact that three Jewish young men received the Congressional Medal of Honor for services rendered in the World War and also the fact that General Pershing paid a tribute to one of the Jewish soldiers who received the honor. During the course of his address, the speaker paid a tribute to Marcus Feuchtwanger. "We of the B'Nai B'Rith stand to sustain and defend the right of Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution," Mr. Berkowitz said.

Toastmaster Levine, who performed his duties in a most capable manner, closed the occasion by thanking all those who aided in making the meeting a marked success.

Well Arranged
For the banquet, the dining room of the Cathedral was immaculately arranged. The speakers' platform was banked with a profusion of ferns and greens. The table was centered by a huge bowl of mixed flowers and sets of lighted candles. During the serving of dinner, Ben Shulansky and his orchestra offered an appealing program.

Eight years ago, the initial quarterly meeting was held here. A large, blazing eight candles, was placed on the table, in commemoration of the date. Needless to say, the affair was a success from every standpoint. Everything moved along in clocklike fashion. The event will go down into the annals of B'Nai B'Rith as one of the leading occasions of the year.

Present for the meeting were delegates from the 26 lodges, Alliquippa, New Kensington, Altoona, Ambridge, Bradock, Kittanning, Beaver Falls, Bradford, Brownsville, Butler, Donora, Erie, DuBois, Ellwood City, Indiana, McKeesport, Meadville, Monessen, New Castle, Oil City, Sharon, Pittsburgh, Titusville, Washington, Greensburg and Punxsutawney.

While the meeting was being held in the Cathedral, lady visitors were charmingly entertained in Temple Israel vestry rooms. Bridge was enjoyed, about 15 tables being in play. Prizes were awarded to high scorers. During the course of the event, delicious refreshments were served. The tea table was attractively arranged with lace cloth and flowers. Mrs. Ted Marlin and Mrs. N. Love poured. The committee included: Mrs. I. Grossman, chairman; Mrs. Ted Marlin, vice chairman; Mrs. Sam Edelstein, Mrs. J. Gerson, Mrs. A. H. Gonic, Mrs. E. Kaplan, Mrs. A. Levine, Mrs. N. J. Love, Mrs. J. Markley, Mrs. H. Pitoff, Mrs. J. E. Raffel, Mrs. L. Sandler, Mrs. H. Sloan, Mrs. G. S. Stone, Mrs. David Victor, Mrs. Herman Wolfe.

Afternoon Session
More than 250 members attended the afternoon session. David Weiner, of Washington, Pa., and president, opened the meeting. Mayor Charles McGrath followed by greeting the group. Henry Zachs of Erie, followed with a response. Reports were then given by the following persons:

Jules Arfield, "Social Service"; Joseph Porter, "Wider Scope"; Leo Siegel, "Americanism"; Alvin Eisenberg, "Publicity"; Louis Schlesinger, "Hillel Contact"; Herman Feinberg, "Fellowship"; Bernard Blumberg, "A. Z. A."; Leonard Pessal, "Program"; Frank R. S. Kaplan, Esquire, "Anti-Defamation."

One of the highlights of the afternoon session was the discussion, "Seminar Anti Defamation Activity," by Abram Berkowitz, chairman of District No. 3, and a resident of Philadelphia. The group selected Beaver Falls for their next quarterly meeting, some time in April.

Bungalow Burns At Pulaski Farm

Fire Occurs At High Hill Fruit Farm On Sunday Afternoon

Bungalow on the High Hill fruit farm at Pulaski burned to the ground Sunday afternoon. The cause of the fire is believed to have been sparks which came from the shingle roof. Owing to the lack of water, persons who hurried to the fire were unable to save the structure which was built by a Mr. McDonald of Youngstown about 15 years ago.

The bungalow was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Meyers. They were eating dinner when the blaze was discovered. At that time the fire had made considerable headway on the shingle roof. Residents of Pulaski hurried to the scene but nothing could be done to save the house and it burned to the ground.

PRESIDENT SAYS

would be impracticable in its application and incompatible with our representative form of government," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

His assertions were dramatically disclosed to the house in a letter which Speaker Bankhead read to the members a few minutes before they began debate on whether they would consider the controversial Ludlow resolution.

Bankhead preceded his reading of the letter with a personal plea to the membership. He branded the proposal as a "radical and a revolutionary attack upon the fundamental principles of a representative democracy."

"I am unwilling," he declared, "to abandon the fundamental law of the constitution of this nation, especially in times like these."

Although the president's action was tantamount to personally assuming command of the vigorous administration fight to crush the resolution overwhelmingly, his letter was viewed as directed more to the world than to congress. House leaders have emphatically stated that defeat of the resolution was no wise in doubt.

Sponsors Sincere
"I fully realize," the president wrote, "that the sponsors of this proposal sincerely believe that it would be helpful in keeping the United States out of war. I am convinced it would have the opposite effect."

"Our government is conducted by the people through representatives of their own choosing. It was with singular unanimity that the founders of the republic agreed upon such free and representative form of government as the only practical means of government by the people."

Undeterred by the president's appeal, Rep. Louis Ludlow (D) Indiana, a hulking, ex-newspaperman and ardent pacifist, at once arose and called down the resolution for a vote on its consideration.

Under the house rules 10 minutes automatically went to Ludlow for a plea in behalf of his proposal, like time going to Chairman O'Connor of the house rules committee to oppose it.

Cattle Thieves
Have Confessed

(International News Service)

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 10.—Written confessions of cattle rustlers by Stanley Miller and Fred Price, both 35, and brothers-in-law, of Fallowfield township, were said to be in the hands of the state's attorney at Kingwood, W. Va. today following their arrest with a live steer in their converted automobile sedan.

Two years of cattle stealing in Washington county also came to light in the statement as the two local men admitted similar depredations here, according to police.

A movement to prefer charges of rustling against the two men here was launched before justice of the peace Harry W. Scott of North Charleroi as constable Joseph Andres made a search of extensive butchering sheds on Miller's farm.

Don't Neglect a Cold

Rub soothing, warming Musterole well into your chest and throat. Musterole is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other valuable ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, helpful in drawing out local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

VENDOL ONLY THING THAT HELPED HIM

Retired Edinburg Grocer, Aged
82, Suffered For Years From Sour, Gassy, Stomach Condition. Found Relief When He Tried Vendol.

Although the great Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine Vendol has been of amazing benefit to persons of all ages, it is particularly gratifying to report instances where it has helped men and women of advanced years, because in many cases they have given up hope of ever becoming well again.

Mr. J. J. Cameron, well known retired grocer of Edinburg, Pa., 6 miles from New Castle, says: "For several years I was badly constipated and this seems to have undermined my health. I had a lot of trouble with my stomach and would feel tight and bloated soon after I had eaten."

"Seemed to me I always felt bilious, head felt light and often ached for hours. My tongue was coated, breath smelled bad and my mouth had a bitter, vile taste. My nerves were quivery and I felt tired and achy all over."

"I had tried many remedies to relieve my condition, but only seemed to get worse instead of better. You can imagine my surprise and pleasure when I began taking Vendol and found the relief for which I had long been seeking. It worked easily and pleasantly on my bowels, brought out the awful gas from my stomach and I began to feel better than in years. If Vendol did so much for me I am sure it will help others so I advise others suffering as I did to begin taking it at once."

Vendol is sold by all leading druggists everywhere and is especially recommended here by New Castle Drug Co. at 35 E. Washington St. and 24 N. Mill St. Schweitzer's Pharmacy, and Ellwood Cut Rate in Ellwood city, and Weaver's Cut Rate in New Wilmington.

Some Of Jobless
Running Risk
Of Losing Claims

Must Return To Continue
Claims After Making First
Registrations

Scores of New Castle jobless individuals who entered claims a week ago today for the state's unemployment compensation are running the risk of being disqualified if they fail to continue their claims immediately, Harold J. Mehl, administrative assistant for the state office, warned here today.

"We had 1,900 persons filing claims a week ago and so far this morning only 200 of those 1,900 have returned to continue their claims," Mr. Mehl said at 11 o'clock. He warned that "everyone of the 1,900 should return today to do that."

Under the unemployment office procedures, those who filed claims last Monday were to have returned today to "continue their claims" or be disqualified. Tuesday's filers are to return Tuesday and Wednesday on that day this week.

"The weather makes no difference in this work," Mr. Mehl declared.

President's Ball
At Philadelphia
Has Been Called Off

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—The President's birthday ball for this year has been called off in Philadelphia. John B. Kelly, honorary chairman of the committee sponsoring the event, said today.

Kelly said the action was taken because a change in the method of distributing receipts made it "inadvisable" to hold the affair.

The ball, which has been held January 30—President Roosevelt's birthday—for the past three years, is a part of a nationwide drive to raise money for fighting infantile paralysis.

Kelly said funds raised at previous balls were divided among local institutions and the Warm Springs foundation, but that this year all money raised was to be sent to the committee for the celebration of the President's birthday to fight infantile paralysis.

Rehearsals for the 1938 edition of the Kiwanis club "Showboat" have commenced at the show castle rehearsal hall in Room 222 in the Greer building. President Orville Potter of Kiwanis, announced today. The show will be presented in the Cathedral auditorium on January 20 and 21.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10.—Federal authorities today pressed an inquiry into charges that prizes in Father James R. Cox's $25,000 "garden stakes" were listed as going to relatives and friends of one of the promoters.

United States attorney Chas. F. Uhl said he had been informed of the charges, directed the federal inquiry.

"If these charges are true," he said, "they will prove that there was no intention of awarding prizes legitimately."

Father Cox and B. J. Clifford, of Cleveland, original promoter of the "stakes" are now under $3,000 bond each, charged with operation of lottery and using the mails to defraud.

Uhl said he had received instruction from the Washington office of the department of justice last week "to prosecute the case to the limit."

Yankees Will Be Highest Paid Of Big League Teams

Colonel Jake Ruppert Will Have Tough Time Signing Up His Stars

Gomez, Ruffing, Rolfe, DiMaggio Will All Want More Money In 1938

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The New York Yankees of 1938 undoubtedly will be the highest paid club in baseball ever known.

The Yankee payroll seems sure to total at least $350,000 and may even reach $500,000 a figure which would top $500,000 the payroll of the same club in the halcyon days when Babe Ruth was getting $80,000.

Col. Jake Ruppert, who has more dollars than he has gallons of beer in his brewery, and his right bower, Ed Barrow, will take up the salary question of the Yanks today, after which they will drop the contracts in the mail, and sit down to await the squawks that are sure to follow.

Expect Holdouts

And accompanying the squawks will be a choice set of holdouts to enliven the spring campaign.

The Yanks last year were supposed to have drawn around $300,000 for their labors in the support vineyard. Neither Ruppert nor Barrow can hope to get by with less than a $350,000 increase for the club.

One third of a million dollars may seem an outlandish figure to pay for a ball club until one breaks it down. That sum, for instance, covers 23 players, three coaches and a manager.

The average for a world championship club is not so terrific when one stops to consider that two men—Manager Joe McCarthy who drew $35,000 and Lou Gehrig, who got $36,000—were paid one fifth of the total.

Gehrig, who breaks at least one record with every game he plays, is sure to get as much this season, and it is not unreasonable to suppose Ruppert may tilt the ante for him.

And what of joining Joe DiMaggio? Compared with the achievements and salaries of other players around the league, Joe certainly rates at least $25,000 and probably will hold out for that amount.

More For Gomez

Lefty Gomez took a $5,000 cut last year and then proceeded to win 21 games. Surely, it is not too much to expect that he will have that cut restored. And what of Red Ruffing who also won 20? If they don't get $20,000 each, they won't be far of that figure.

Some of the boys may be content to play again for what they received last year or for a small increase, but how about Johnny Murphy, the game's greatest relief pitcher who turned in 13 victories against four defeats. Johnny is sure to get a big boost as is Red Rolfe who, the Yankees front office rightly claims, is the best third baseman in the business.

Bill Dickey surely rates a neat boost. And so do George Selkirk, Tommy Henrich and Myril Hoag. Did we say the increases would total $350,000? Better make it $500,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Fred Apostoli of San Francisco, uncrowned king of the middleweights, has agreed to fight Glen Lee of Nebraska here February 4. Lee, who is in Los Angeles, was expected to be lined up today for the match by Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Jensen-Waners Not Satisfied

Charge Pittsburgh Pirates President Benswanger As "Nickel Nurse"

DISCONTENT MAY BE SLUMP SEASON

By DICK SHANER
International News Service Sports Writer

HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—Short and sweet:

Who's right and who's wrong . . . on the same day that the management of the Pittsburgh Pirates said it had spent $100,000 for "new names and new faces" in the Bucco lineup, veteran Woody Jensen accused the front office of playing scrooge with the club's finances.

Jensen, an outfielder who has worn a Pirates uniform for seven years, charged the "officials" were "nickel nurses" . . . Furthermore, he ranted, when a player obtained a "pass" for a friend, it's full amount of the ticket was deducted from his pay check . . . with the outburst, Jensen climbed on the wagon with Lloyd and Paul Waner, the famous brother combination who recently announced they would welcome a trade which would remove them from the Bucco roster.

Waner, former Pittsburgh hurler who was sent to Brooklyn in a deal during the past season, also loosened up with a tirade after his transfer . . . Back of it all may be seen this: There is discontent aplenty among the Buccos . . . which may explain fully their disastrous slump last season when they skidded out of first place and eventually wound up three notches down the ladder from a spot which should have been theirs.

E. E. "Hook" Mylin, the football coach who guided Lafayette's Leopards to a perfect season, picked up a new name while attending the annual convention of the American football coaches down south last week . . . Scheduled to speak on "secondary defense," Mylin said all he had to say in two minutes . . . and immediately, he was dubbed "Two Minute Mylin."

But after all, "Hook's" record speaks quite loudly for itself.

Philadelphia writers have been heaping laurels aplenty on Gov. George H. Earle for naming Jules Aronson to the state athletic commission as successor to Joe Rainey.

He is the "ideal man" they agreed in commenting on the promotion of the former secretary who had made quite a name for himself as a promoter . . . The promotion meant a $2000 raise for the Philadelphian.

Pittsburgh promoters are trying to line up a bout between native son Billy Conn and Fred Apostoli, the best, coastier who showed Freddy Steele the other night. Arrangements were almost completed once before . . . And now some of the boys are trying to pick up the shattered threads . . . And if every consummated, it'll be a safe bet that Billy will wind up the evening by curling up on the canvas on the wrong end of a health sleep producer.

Addenda: Bill Dillon, one of the backs on Duquesne's flashy outfit of '36 which made Pitt sit up and take notice, will open and manage an office for a finance company in York within a month.

Maybe football players do learn something in college after all . . . A son of big Jess Willard is preparing to enter the fight game . . . Big Jess himself is an occasional figure in Pittsburgh night spots.

White Sox Sign Up 24 Of Players Without Trouble

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—J. Louis Comiskey, president of the Chicago White Sox, had a suspicion today that maybe he had been a little bit too generous when 24 of the 30 contracts he sent out were returned promptly—signed.

Among the missing contracts was that of Zeke Bonura, the colorful New Orleans Italian, who has haggled every Spring because he has known manager Jimmy Hayes would have a hard task filling his shoes.

Mercer High Quits Football Sport

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Jan. 10.—Football as a variety sport at Mercer high school was voted out by the board of education at their last meeting. The sport which enjoyed a recess of some years, was revived ten years ago. The present coach is "Bill" Crowell, Westminster grid and floor star.

The reason assigned by the board for their action was the fact that high schools of contemporary size had discontinued the sport and as a result the local school was forced to contact with schools of double their attendance with the result that they had no chance to win by virtue of the larger squads and heavier teams.

Rambling Around In Local Sports World

The mailman drops in . . . our smiling mailman dropped a batch of letters from readers today . . . Miss Scribbles, the first one contains a couple of sentences informing the Rambling Reporter that East Brook is slated to battle Bessemer, January 11, in a Section 21 affair . . . another says that Bessemer travels to New Wilmington, February 8, instead of January 21 . . . here's one stating that Enon Valley High defeated Union Township Junior high and not the Union Varsity . . . another note is addressed to Miss Scribbles and reads: "Alex Parou another of the roster includes . . . Nickie Gallagher, Joe Nigro, Joe Cooper, Tim Hutchison, Pop Adams, Paul Morrison, Joe Kelley, Bus Reiber, Pete Zingaro and John Teplica . . . and other sports follower asks us to name the summer champs in county league baseball city league and Junior rank . . . here it is: Bessemer won the county title. West Valley crashed through with its first City laurels and the Catholics won the Junior crown . . . here's one asking us to print Pitt's 1938 football schedule . . . West Virginia, Temple, Southern Methodist, Wisconsin, Duquesne, Fordham, Carnegie Tech, Penn State, Nebraska and Duke . . . Joe Maher asks us who is the highest football player in pro ball and how much he makes . . . since the season is over, it's rather hard to obtain figures . . . Sammy Baugh is among the topnotchers and receives $7,500 . . . we are asked to print Joe DiMaggio's 1938 salary . . . it is believed that he will receive $25,000 after considerable dickering . . . lets save the rest for some other time Miss Scribbles . . .

Did you know that . . . Andy Kerr used to coach basketball at Pitt University . . . he was succeeded by Dr. Carlson, present pilot . . . Lord Patrick Lansdowne, a member of the grunt and groan society, commonly known as wrestling, generally sports a monocle and is escorted by a servant when he steps into the ring . . . Tom Gilbert, Santa Clara halfback, is so superstitious that he had a rabbit's foot taped in the crown of his headgear . . . Texas Christian was supposed to have the heaviest eating griddle in the land . . . the Horned Frogs lost money, on Kl. Aldrich, their center, every time they stopped at a hotel . . .

Buff Jones, who started his first season as Nebraska's pilot at the start of the '37 campaign, pulled off a crack about his Cornhuskers . . . Jones said his team killed so much time in the last quarter of their game with Indiana that he accused them of playing W. P. A. football . . . Albie Booth, a grid hero of several seasons ago at Yale, now sells ice cream in Connecticut . . .

Note: The Rambling Reporter endorses any or all of the suggestions or opinions about any sports send them in. Brevity is stressed, however.

Sports notes picked up here and there . . . John Cabas, former New Castle high floorman, is doing well with Mt. Union . . . the other night Cabas sent the sphere reeling thru the cords for 11 markers . . . he crashed through with seven more points against Bowling Green, Friday night . . . the latest sport figure to change his handle, is John Montague, known as the mysterious lad of goldfom . . . he wants back his original name, LaVerne Moore . . . Benny Leonard, one of the greatest boxers of all time, who, like Jack Dempsey, owns a restaurant, tried out his wallop against one of his waiters, was arrested but was released . . . some years ago, there was a fighter named Al Norton who was considered to be better than Jack Dempsey by his manager, George Sharkey . . . because he thought his protegee was better than the man-assa mauler, Sharkey turned down an offer to manage Jack . . . the rumor resurged that Sharkey in San Francisco a couple days ago . . . Fred Apostoli, Frisco bellboy, who belted Freddie Steele all over the ring Friday night, was a short ender at a price of 13-5 . . .

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The stock market today pushed forward into new high ground for the recovery, after weathering initial profit-taking attracted by Saturday's sharp rise.

Trading was at an active pace, and the high-speed ticker slipped 2 minutes behind for a time under the sudden influx of new buying orders. Gains running to more than 2 points were chalked up, in contrast to the general list of fractional losses prevailing in the initial hour.

Aviations, steels, coppers, motors and chemicals were leaders on the widespread rally, which was touched off late in the first hour.

Douglas spurred 2 points, Boeing almost as much and United Aircraft about a point. Chrysler jumped more than 2 in the motors and General Motors half as much. American Smelting, Anaconda and Kennecott converted fractional losses into gains of a point or so in the coppers.

U. S. Steel, after slipping 1/4 at the start, recovered for a net gain of almost a point. Bethlehem also was down 1/4, but changed this to a gain of more than a point later.

Allied Chemical and Air Reduction were up 2 points, and DuPont 1 in the chemicals; Case converted a 2-point loss into an equal gain, and International Harvester climbed 2 in the farm implements; Atchison was up a point and other rails fared better; fractions, Eastman Kodak and Westinghouse each advanced 1/2; and Standard of California led a strong oil list with a gain of better than a point.

Utilities were mostly fractions under previous closings.

Dr. Harvey Gaul
To Address Clubs
On Tuesday NightImportant Event To Be Held In United Presbyterian Church
Dining Room

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 10.—This week's most important event will take place on Tuesday evening when members of the Woman's club will hold their January dinner meeting in the First U. P. church dining room.

Dr. Harvey Gaul of Pittsburgh, formerly with the Post-Gazette, and internationally known composer and dramatic art, book and music critic, will be the guest speaker.

Members of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Business and Professional Women's clubs have accepted an invitation to participate in the event and husbands of the members have also been invited. Two hundred reservations have been made. The dinner will begin promptly at 6:30 P. M.

Rev. A. M. Stevenson, Paul Winter, Harold Burns and Robert Taylor have been organized as a "barber-shop" quartet and will sing early American folk tunes and contemporary tin-paul selections to illustrate Dr. Gaul's lecture. Dr. Gaul has travelled widely and devoted many years of study to music and his address is anticipated with a pleasing deal of pleasure by those planning to attend.

The garden division of the club has planned special decorations to add to the evening's pleasure.

In the girls game the Segedi sisters again monopolized scoring honors for Ellwood girls while in Ann Zelle, Salem had a player of exceptional shooting ability.

In the boys' game, S. Herbert, M. Herbert and John Zickel were top scorers for Ellwood, while M. Linder and Schneider showed to advantage for Salem.
